LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

An Open Letter to one of the Representatives from Shelby County. МЕМРИІS, October 18, 1879. To Hou. J. C. Maccabe:

well-known Memphians, among whom you are prominent. Your deliberation, as they should, touches home and meets with the ardent wishes of every Memphian at home and abroad. High taxes have destroyed our city credit—made us so poor that we have fallen into a Taxing-District. Right here, as far as taxes are concerned, let us stop and ook before another leap, as by moderate means and low taxes we can get along with all the necessary works required, and for one I desire to let Dr. Porter and others alone, as they set out to direct the ship. I assure you, through their well directed aims, you may go through their well directed aims, you may go to sleep amid your mountains of debt and wake up after a splendid nap to find our streets and alleys all paved, sewering first-class and ample for all the purposes of health and sweetness; a beautiful city, and her people enjoying a commerce and trade not lost, but enhanced and enjoyed—don't shudder—a city filled with stores and workshops, and a happy and prosperous people. Did you ever read of a city growing up without brick and mortar, aprons and workmen, and high smokestacks, indicating a thrifty mechanism? You never did? Then, I say, let us go slow; stick close to economy; stay at home; have patience, and you will be proud of the magician's work. The plan is, let us think well, and all together; keep out of debt and, it possible, pay as we go; don't let us undertake at too pay as we go; don't let us undertake at too great cost, reaching an amount when calmly looked into is calculated to make a fellow, especially one easily frightened, drop his instrument of work for others to do. Coming home; all at home; cotton, cotton, all cot-ton! summer coming; merchants go to Europe; property-owners go to the springs, eaving the poor man to the care of things. Therefore, I say, extend your hand to me-chanism, and then you can leave with the happy, knowing that there are enough left, as there always is in other prosperous cities.

If I had money, and desired wealth, I would
at this writing put it all into realty, no matter what is said. Right here on this great bluff, on these great waters, is a city yet to be admired, ranking in population and well-to-do more than half of the cities now seeking her trade. Our great indebtedness and high taxes have driven away Tennesseans, too many of them our best people, enlarging California, Missouri, Texas, Louisiana and Colorado. Now let us do something to bring them back be presented with a chromo bearing the likefrom less comfortable homes. Forty years ness of Dr. Plunket and his compatriots, who farming, with an acquaintance with the soil for cotton, corn, timothy, potatoes, stock of all kinds, and a temperature of climate and healthfulness unsurpassed in the United States, as she lies so central among the States, has convinced me that no where in my know-Those who remained here this time say they will never remain here again and fight the epidemic. They do not mind the fever so much as they do the oppressive and inhuman quarantine rules and regulations.

One of the most novel "tid-bits" of the season, says an exchange, may be made by wrapping an oyster in a rasher of bacon, then putting it before the fire until the bacon is cooked, when it will be found ready for eating.

has convinced me that no where in my knowing does farming pay so largely the frugal and industrious farmer as here. It is true our war troubles lasted longer than we wish d—to many, crushing—hence we have done wrong in taxing ourselves with too much hard work and promises to get out. Borrowing at high rates of interest is death and destruction to the best interest, and makes poor indeed corporation and individuals. Yes, we are indeed poor, and I therefore regard Mr. Phelan's resolution safest for the present, looking with repugnance on any the present, looking with repugnance on any costly schemes injour present crippled condi-tion. But should the State of Tennessee come to our relief in any shape to help, she then will be doing something to be proud of as a generous noble people, coming to the relief of needy and helpless people, so over-whelmed in the deadliest scourge known to man. Respectfully, K. J. B. L. WINN.

WHAT IS TO BE DONE?

Memphis Must be Redeemed, or her Best Citizens will Abandon her to the Fate that is Inevitable-The Legislature Must Act.

Decasional Correspondence Appeal.

Sr. Louis, October 16 .- As quite a num ber of gentlemen have discussed the sanitary needs of Memphis through your paper, in connection with what they term the mer-chants' meeting in St. Louis, and as none of them have given the reasons for the action taken by Memphis citizens in that meeting, with your permission I will endeavor, in the plainest and simplest manner to do so. This question has been discussed indoors and on the streets almost constantly since I came to St. Louis, the first of September. One could scarcely talk five minutes to a Memphis man or woman without hearing this expression: "What is to be done with Memphis?" Can it be reclaimed? Is there no way of remedying the cause of sickness and making it habitable; if not, then we must look out for othe quarters as we are heartily sick and disgusted with being driven from home and business in this way every year." These expressions, and the earnestness with which they were uttered by our wealthiest and most prosperou business men, were enough to awaken dee interest in the mind of every one who loved his home and desired the prosperity of his own community. This feeling of uncertain-ty and dread as to the future of Memphis naturally enough gave rise to much private consultation among those of us here before the meeting was called as to the best method of raising funds for the accomplish-ment of the work. It was pretty well agreed that nothing less than a complete sewerage system would satisfy our people and give a feeling of security for the future. A stock company was first suggested; it was thought sufficient capital could be raised in this way to build main sewers, and force property owners to connect with them at a fixed price. This plan was objected to on the ground (I that it would be a monopoly and would in some way manage to be oppressive, and (2 that no legal enactment could compel the lot owners to connect with a corporate sewer any more than he could be compelled to take water or gas from a corporation. This, of course, would defeat the object of sanitation, which, to be perfect and effective, must have a connection with every improved lot in reach of a main. The second method, and the one adopted by the meeting, was to have the governor cal the legislature together, and ask them to levy a tax for the purpose of sewering the city and doing such other senitary work a would be needed to put it in first-class condi tion. This plan is indorsed by every Mem-phis man now in St. Louis, except four. So far as my personal knowledge extends, and I have endeavored to look into it carefully, th sentiment is in favor of having a tax levied sufficient to do the work promptly and effectively. Many of the largest taxpayers express a willingness to go as high as ten per cent., if necessary, though they have to bor row the money to pay it. The reasons for preferring this latter means of raising the money is-first, the sewers will be free, and everyone can be forced, by ordinances of otherwise, to connect with them; secondly it is the quickest and surest plan for getting the means, and is the only plan that will bring money from certain sources. For in-stance, there are quite a number of large estates that own valuable paying business property which could be reached in no other way, besides a vast amount of corporate prop-Although winter, that heavy old monarch, with his crown of snow, and his scepter gemmed with icicles, affects mankind with such evils as coughs and colds, happily they can be cured by Coussens' honey of tar, a most excellent remedy for diseases of the throat and lungs, bronchitis, croup and hoarseness. and a number of others, whose officers have no authority to contribute to this work, but will pay the tax cheerfully and promptly. Again, Judge Lea, Messrs. Overton, Brinkley and Snowden, four of the largest real-estate owners in the city, have given assurances that they will pay their taxes promptly. This will amount to a large sum, and, added to the tax from gentleman who have previously expressed a willingness to those who are able to pay on an equitable basis. Of course there are some widows and basis. Of course there are some widows and orphans' property that is already encum-bered by back taxes, from those we do not expect any assistance, nor would we expect the sick and maimed to assist in extinguishing the flames if a conflagration was raging in our midst. All the talk about selling out the poor man with his little home is mere moonshine. They are the men that pay taxes, first, last and all the time, and of all others are most anxious to see this work done. This is eminently a work for those who are able to do it, and I verily believe that a large majority of our people will make any reasonable sacrifice for its accomplishment. But we must have unity of action; it is a matter of life and death with us, of half a loaf or no oaf, whether we will live in a pesthouse or in a clean, beautiful city, surrounded by all the natural advantages that a munificent providence could bestow. As to the details of these improvements, they will have to be settled by those who are experts in that business. The execution of the work we can safely trust to the present excellent officers of the Taxing-Iristrict. We hear much said about the government doing our work for us to abate a national nuisance; that the State legislature would loan us the money in the State treasury for a term of years, or donate

Dillard, Coffin & Co.,

The additional expense our citizens have incurred running away this summer would do the work we need. Our loss in trade for this and last month would more than do it over again. We must make up our minds to put our own shoulders to the wheel and assist ourselves or shoulders to the wheel and assist ourselves or sell our birthright for a mess of pottage to some more resolute and determined class of people that will clean up and build a great and prosperous commercial emporium. Ilearn that Governor Marks declines for the present to call the legislature together, in accordance with the petition sent up from this and other points by Memphis citizens. This I regret xceedingly, as time is precious with us. If we intend to do anything it should be comnenced at the earliest practicable moment. There must be determined opposition to this plan somewhere among our people, or the governor, who has on all other occasions shown himself our staunch friend, would make the call at once. It, however, nothing can be done earlier by the committee having this matter in charge the

this matter in charge, I would suggest that when we all return home, which I trust will be very soon, we come together and agree on what is best to be done; get our representawhat is best to be done; get our representa-tives to the general assembly to agree with us, and my word for it, Governor Marks will call the legislature in special session and the good people of Tennessee will sustain him in doing it. The fact is, the question has a sel-fish side to it for all Tennesseans who are not n sympathy with us otherwise. Eight years ago the taxable values in our corporate limits were forty-eight millions, to day they are sixteen millions; if the fever remains a few years longer they may be reduced many milions lower, which will make a material difference in paying the expenses of the State government. We only ask the State to incur the insignificant amount needed in assembling the legislature. If we are successful, and take our old place as taxpayers to the State, it would be returned tenfold in a few years. I have this to say in conclusion: The four Memphians here mentioned as opposed to the action of the meeting are not in langer of being sold out on account of high axes; they stand first-class, financially abl o pay four or ten per cent. taxes promptly t they differ in opinion with us, do not think the expenditure necessary or the work needed. I am satisfied that the very large number who favor this plan are not wedded to it, and if anything better is offered, will gladly accept it. Very truly, J. R. G. M. White & Co. On the Plan
